THE PROFIT SCRIPT

Ad Teardown: Topicals

mytopicals.com
skincare
2026-11-05

LIVE ADS SNAPSHOT

Ad-by-ad review not included in this one-page version.

LANDING PAGE

Url	https://mytopicals.com
Proof	Retail ~4.2/5 across several thousand reviews; Thingtesting 4.3 (84% recommend)

- Faded also sold at Sephora (US/UK)
- New 'Faded Dark Spot Patches' discussed on Reddit (Oct 2026)

WHAT CUSTOMERS SAY

> "I started once a week and worked my way up. I had an increase in acne and it was obviously this serum."
> https://www.reddit.com/r/SkincareAddiction/comments/vt99v0/ · Reddit (verbatim snippet)

> "I use it about once a week still and, in conjunction with Vit C, I've noticed a pretty good amount of fading in old dark spots"
> https://www.reddit.com/r/Sephora/comments/11ieciz/ · Reddit (verbatim snippet)

> "I'd stick to the faded cream rather than the patches because they're just not worth the price."
> https://www.reddit.com/r/Sephora/comments/1xi9cuc/ · Reddit, 2026-10-29 (verbatim snippet)

PAINS · DESIRES · OBJECTIONS

- Dark spots / post-blemish marks
- Breakouts or irritation in the first weeks
- Visible fading, steadily
- Know how long it takes
- Smell (described as sulfuric)
- Fear of purging/breakouts

GAPS WORTH TESTING

1. First-weeks fear is the quit point
Breakout/purge threads recur (r/SkincareAddiction, r/Sephora). Onboarding creative that sets the slow-start routine can protect repeat purchase.

2. Timeline expectation
'How long until results' is the most asked question; NBC Select tester reports success after two months. A week-8 framing beats day-3 promises.

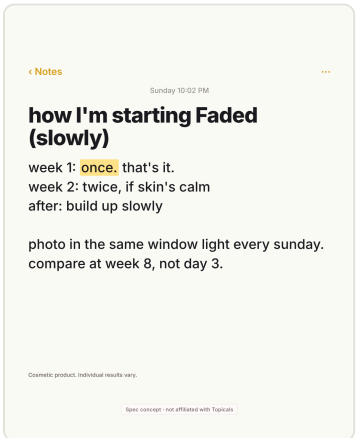

3. Smell objection
Smell is the most common complaint in review summaries; pre-empting it in creative (with the brand's real explanation) removes a surprise.

3 CONCEPTS

NATIVE NOTES-APP STATIC
Slow start
"how I'm starting Faded (slowly)"
Onboarding / objection — start once a week; breakout fears

UGC PROGRESS DIARY 30S (REAL CUSTOMER, WITH PERMISSION)
Week 8, not day 3
"I took a photo every Sunday for 8 weeks."
Expectation-setting — 'how long until results'

FOUNDER/CHEMIST TALKING-HEAD 20S
Yes, it smells like that
"Nobody warned me about the smell. So I'm warning you."
Objection pre-empt — smell complaints

Next step
Happy to send 3 onboarding concepts for Faded.

Carl Thielemann · The Profit Script · theprofitscript.com